Ike Defends His Aides In Chotiner Case

Eisenhower Restates
Orders In Regard
To Influence Deals

WASHINGTON, May 4 (P)—President Eisenhower said today there are no grounds for believing that Murray Chotiner's contacts with the White House violated the President's code of ethics for dealing with people who have friends in the government.

Chotiner is a Beverly Hills, Calif., lawyer who managed Vice President Nixon's campaign in 1952 and was a witness yesterday at a Senate hearing into charges of crookedness in contracting for military uniforms.

Chotiner Got Help

During the course of his testimony, Chotiner disclosed he got help from the White House on two occasions in connection with private law cases which had nothing to do with military uniforms.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference today whether he had any suggestions for handling people who have friends in the government and deal with the government.

The President replied he has given two specific orders in this regard and that they have been repeated often.

The first order, he said, was that "any individual coming anywhere in this government is first assured of courteous treatment. I will not stand for arrogance on the part of government officials."

Secondly, the President went on emphatically, "if anyone ever comes to any part of this government and claiming some privilege for even as low as introduction to an official he wants to meet on the basis that he is part of my family or of my friends, that he has any connection with the White House, he is to be thrown out instantly."

Absolutely No Grounds

Eisenhower then said there were "absolutely no grounds in these particular cases for believing that my two rules were violated." Without ever mentioning Chotiner by name, he added:

"In no case did any connection he had with the White House benefit him one bit, and if it ever does, if ever I—I can't believe that anybody on my staff would ever be guilty of an indiscretion."

"But if ever anything came to my attention of that kind, any part of this government, that individual would be gone."

Chotiner himself denied yesterday that he tried to use any influence to help his clients. He said he never tried to make use of his connections with Nixon or anyone else in the government.

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 4 (P)—One large armed Communist junk was sunk and another hit and possibly sunk in the southwest of Matsu this afternoon by Nationalist planes, the Defense Ministry reported.

Two Scared Youths, Lost In Mine, Found Unharm

TARENTUM, Pa., May 4 (P)—Two scared boys, cold and tired after 24 hours lost in the dark maze of an old coal mine, ran stumbling into the light from searchers' lamps today and were led from the mine unharm.

Members of their families greeted Joe Pitkavish Jr., 16, and Paul Crawford, 15, as they walked out, blinking in the sudden daylight of a rainy afternoon. After a brief examination at Allegheny Valley Hospital the boys were allowed to return home.

Their "hooky" escapade from Thursday classes at Har-Brack High School had set off a huge search of the 30-year-old mine carved into a hillside about 25 miles north of Pittsburgh. It ended

Schoolboy, 15, Goes Berserk, Shoots Three

Junior High Youth
Kills One Teacher
After A Reprimand

SEAT PLEASANT, Md., May 4 (P)—Reprimanded for failing to turn in a written assignment, a 15-year-old boy killed one teacher by rifle fire today and wounded two others in a junior high school. Police Chief George J. Panagoulis said the boy, Billy Ray Prevatte, who was expelled from a Raleigh, N.C., school two months ago for threatening a teacher's life, was gunning for the principal when he fired on the three teachers. The principal was not harmed.

Victims of the shooting, which threw the Maryland Park Junior High School on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., into an uproar, were:

Frazer Cameron, 32, bachelor son of a Westfield, N.J., school teacher whose bags were packed for a weekend visit with his mother when he was killed.

Francis Daniel Wagner, 25, the school athletic coach, seriously wounded in the chest.

Robert Hicks, 31, shot in the hand while trying to subdue the boy.

Student Gives Version
A 13-year-old student, Robert Haywood, gave this version: "I saw this boy walking down a third-floor hall carrying a bolt action 22 automatic rifle."

"Mr. Cameron was in his class teaching. The boy pointed the gun into the open doorway and fired, hitting Mr. Cameron."

"Then he ran down the steps to the principal's office on the first floor. He was going through the office door when Mr. Wagner walked into the hall. He was shot in the stomach, I think."

"About that time Mr. Hicks ran up and jumped on the boy, who fired again and shot him in the hand."

Chief Panagoulis said the Prevatte boy was looking for the principal, John Hrezo, when he started shooting.

The school was cleared of students and closed for the remainder of the day. Many of the students went home crying from fright.

Detective Sgt. Richard A. Pearson reconstructed the events this way:

Shortly before noon young Prevatte, an eighth grader, was sent to the principal's office by William Cookson, another coach, to explain his failure to turn in a written assignment in physical education due yesterday.

Went To Office
The boy went to Hrezo's office and was told to wait. After a while he left, slamming the door behind him. Returning in an automobile, he crashed the car into a fence outside the school and fired several volleys at workmen who had seen the crash and had come running in the belief he might need aid.

Apparently uninjured, he hurried into the school and began (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Navy Seaplanes Downed On Sea

HONOLULU, May 4 (P)—Two Navy seaplanes were forced to alight on the wind-whipped Pacific off Hawaii today as their fuel ran low on a troubled flight from San Diego.

The Navy said the crews of both craft were reported safe. The flight of 10 planes bucked heavy winds on the ocean crossing.

The Air Force said its rescue ships had spotted both of the downed planes. "The weather out there is rough," a flier reported.

A Navy spokesman said the first plane to alight was piloted by Lt. (j.g.) David L. Harlow. He went down about 210 miles from Pearl Harbor. The pilot of the second plane was said to have wrenched his back as he alighted, about 40 miles from Hilo.

Both craft began taxiing toward Hilo and appeared to be in no danger.

Ike Backs U. S. Air Power

Says Picture
Not Complete,
Praises Navy

WASHINGTON, May 4 (P)—President Eisenhower said today that when the "full picture" of America's defense is laid before the people, they will feel better than they have about reports of a lag in long-range jet bombers.

These bombers are just a part of the picture, he told his news conference, and "there is still a lot of testimony to come forward."

For one thing, the former five-star general said no one has given testimony yet on what the Navy can do—"the most powerful navy in the world."

"There is no navy that even approaches it in power, and it features one thing—air power," Eisenhower said.

"We have got a tremendous air power, a mobile air power in the sea forces... let's wait until we get this picture sort of all before us."

Eisenhower stressed, too, that, "We have bases around the world, established for the particular purpose of using the medium bomber."

Discusses Situation
Eisenhower discussed the bomber situation in reply to questions based on Senate testimony by Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command, that at the present rate, Russia may be ahead in strategically long-range striking power by 1958 or 1960.

A half dozen other major topics were packed into the half-hour meeting of the President with 190 newsmen.

He mixed an occasional smile into his serious discussions and seemed in good form—he said the doctors tell him he can continue indefinitely on his present schedule of activity, that "there is no trouble about it whatsoever."

Among the top items he handled today:

1. Responsibility—Eisenhower was asked whether, if he is elected again, he can carry on the activities he has set for himself. He said he could and, thumping his fingers on the yellow desk blotter before him, declared with emphasis:

"I would like to make one thing clear: No President can delegate his constitutional duties. How can he do it? He has to sign the papers... and he is responsible for them."

2. Chotiner—The President said there was no reason to believe that two White House contacts by attorney Murray Chotiner violated a presidential rule against his associates submitting to influence.

3. Nixon—Eisenhower told a questioner "I haven't said what the convention is going to do" about choosing a Republican vice presidential nominee.

He repeated "I was delighted" at Nixon's April 26 announcement for renomination.

4. Other politics—The President was asked about a published report that on Feb. 29, when he himself said he would try for a second term, he told a friend:

"I had to say 'yes' because they told me they didn't have time to build up another candidate."

Eisenhower laughed and said, "If I did I could have said it very facetiously." He added that he had often said "we have got a world of Republicans" "that are fully capable."

5. Tax limit—The President was asked about a proposed constitutional amendment to prevent the federal income tax from taking more than 25 per cent of a taxpayer's income.

He replied there was a danger in putting "anything of this kind too rigidly into the law." Then he added:

"The common sense of America ought to find some proper limitation on taxes or at least rearrangement of the tax schedule so we leave to the states and municipalities the ability to perform those responsibilities imposed upon them by the Constitution."

6. Disarmament—Eisenhower said he was sorry Russia has not come around to the American view of disarmament based on mutual inspection of war-making capacity.

He said inspection was essential, and declared:

"If we don't know anything more about what's inside in the Iron Curtain than we do today, then we are not going to reduce anything; that's all there is to it."

Bonn Property Owners May Demonstrate

BONN, Germany, May 4 (P)—The Western Allies are expecting demonstrations by disgruntled German owners of military occupied houses tomorrow—the first anniversary of West German sovereignty.

The Allies are holding nearly 7,000 German homes requisitioned under occupation law for their military families.

A high Allied official said that "some hotheads" might take matters into their own hands and try to evict the soldier tenants. Demonstrations by groups of homeowners are expected in some areas, he added.

Military commands have told servicemen living in requisitioned houses that their legal position is secure. Heads of families have been told to refer any eviction notices they receive to their superior officers.

At Frankfurt, headquarters for the U. S. Army's northern area command, a spokesman said American occupants of requisitioned homes have been instructed to call for the military police if German owners try to enter their houses.

The spokesman added however, "We don't expect any trouble."

He said the Germans have no legal basis to oust any American family. Americans have been cautioned against provoking any incidents.

When the occupation ended last May 5 the West German government agreed to allow the Allied forces to keep possession of requisitioned property for one year. Thereafter the government "guaranteed" it would provide the Allies with any property still needed.

But the long winter and other technical factors slowed building so that there is still a shortage of 7,000 homes. The Allies therefore asked the Bonn government to extend possession until the end of this year.

But Parliament has so far refused to sanction this.

Graham Jury
Is Instructed,
Has 4 Verdicts

DENVER, May 4 (P)—Dist. Judge Joseph M. McDonald instructed the jury today to consider four verdicts in deciding the state's murder case against John Gilbert Graham, 24, accused of killing his mother in dynamiting an airliner last Nov. 1.

Forty-four persons died in the crash. The court told the seven men and five women to consider these verdicts:

1. Guilty of first degree murder with the penalty death.

2. Guilty of first degree murder with the penalty life imprisonment at hard labor.

3. Guilty of second degree murder with the penalty to be fixed by the court. Second degree murder is punishable by a prison term of not less than 10 years and ranging to life.

4. Not guilty.

Acid-Throwing Victim Loses Sight In Both His Eyes

NEW YORK, May 4 (P)—Labor columnist Victor Riesel who was assaulted by an acid-throwing thug last April 5, has lost the sight of both eyes.

Riesel's assailant has never been identified. The newspaperman blamed the assault on his exposures of racketeers in organized labor.

Since the sulphuric acid seared his eyes and face, some of the city's top eye doctors have tried to save Riesel's sight.

However, Robert M. Hall president of the syndicate which handles Riesel's newspaper column, announced late today that the sight was gone in both eyes.

Atomic Plant Heroism Told

LONDON, May 4 (P)—Serious breakage a year ago in Britain's biggest atomic explosives factory, and the heroism of 251 volunteers who kept it going, were disclosed yesterday by the director, H. D. Davey.

The volunteers worked in the face of intense radioactivity to weld a broken plate in a reactor and maintain production.

The fault occurred in one of two reactors at Sellafield, a sprawling plant which makes plutonium. If the plant had been shut down, Britain would have lost a big part of its plutonium output.

Davey told of the mishap in a lecture to the Institute of Chemical Engineers.

He said the plate was dislodged from the reactor face last May. Replacing it would have been simple if there had been no radiation. But radiation was intense, and the volunteers from the factory staff took turns manipulating welding equipment at the ends of 60-foot flexible arms thrust through four-inch holes in a protective screen.

Workers were allowed in the danger area only a few minutes at a time—and in that time absorbed a radiation "dose" equivalent to that they normally get in a two-week period.

Wealthy Chinese
Released On Bail

NEW YORK, May 4 (P)—A wealthy Chinatown businessman was released in $5,000 bail today on charges of illegally bringing Chinese into this country. Sing Kee, 57, surrendered voluntarily.

He told newsmen: "I feel I am innocent of these charges and the day will come when I will vindicate myself."

Reputed to be a millionaire, Sing is accused in the case of five Chinese who fraudulently claimed U. S. citizenship by representing themselves as children of American Chinese.

He's Not Candidate
LONDON, May 4 (P)—Harold Stassen said tonight he had no ambition to be drafted as Republican vice-presidential candidate if the San Francisco convention becomes deadlocked.

Newsman, CD Officials See Mild Blast

Are First Outside
Observers Permitted
At Eniwetok Since '46

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY, Off Eniwetok, Saturday, May 5 (P)—A small atomic weapon, described in terms of a "nominal" 20,000 tons of TNT, was exploded early today at this mid-Pacific American proving grounds.

Fifteen newsmen and a score of Civil Defense officials aboard this command ship witnessed the rather mild spectacle from a distance of 15 miles. They were the first outside observers permitted in the area since the two Bikini atomic blasts of 1946.

In the current test series, planned to include 10 or more nuclear devices, a big one is scheduled for next Tuesday, May 8—May 7, U. S. date. Officials have said that it will be a large hydrogen bomb, but not the largest, and that it will be the first American air-drop of an H-bomb.

Operation Redwing
Today's comparatively small blast, inaugurating Operation Redwing, was touched off on the surface of Runit Island, one of the dots of land that make up Eniwetok Atoll.

It was exploded right on schedule at 6:25 a.m.—1:25 p.m. Friday, EST.

To observers peering through high-density goggles it was quickly over.

There was a dot of white light, rapidly it yellowed and spread over the one-mile length on the island. Then the gray of the tropical predawn returned.

A mushroom cloud, typical of nuclear explosions, rose, dimly at first, but swiftly.

Within one minute it reached a height estimated at 25,000 to 30,000 feet. It was crowned with a thin sheet of glistening ice crystals.

More than one minute after the detonation, the sound reached the Mt. McKinley. It was a low, grumbling noise.

Within 15 minutes, the mushroom cloud had streaked out and lost its shape as the rays of the rising sun, still below the horizon, bathed its underside in pink.

Planes and warships patrolled the area for vast distances to warn off any wandering merchant ships or fishing craft.

However, the area in which the "baby" bomb dropped lethal radioactive coral dust from the surface of Runit Island was estimated at no more than 20 miles downwind.

Can't Discuss Size
Dr. Gordon Dunning, radiological expert for the AEC, told reporters he could not discuss the exact size of this weapon. However, he explained matters in terms of a nominal 20,000 tons of TNT.

Both before and afterward, official secrecy was maintained about the nature of today's weapon. It could have been a warhead for a bomb or a guided missile.

The comparatively small size would make it useful on a battlefield or in strategic attacks on definite targets.

As a spectacle, it was merely the preamble to the vastly bigger explosions to come.

Hope Abides Though East,
West Talks Are Disagreed

LONDON, May 4 (P)—The East-West disarmament talks broke up in disagreement tonight but not without hope.

Delegates to the five-nation U.N. Disarmament subcommittee conference prepared for a bout of backstage diplomacy during the next few months aimed at bridging the differences between Russia and the West in readiness for another series of talks, probably this autumn.

The subcommittee—the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada—finalized its report to the full U.N. Disarmament Commission at its last session today. This was the 18th meeting in the current series and the 86th over the past three years.

The Western nations incorporated into the record a declaration expressing their "conviction that a reconciliation of the opposing points of view is possible and necessary."

Official sources said the two sides moved closer together than was expected at the outset seven weeks ago but that the differences remained sharp.

The informants said the Russians showed "an extremely rigid attitude" once they had offered their three-year plan concentrating mainly on reduction of conventional arms.

The Western declaration showed the main disagreements with Russia.

On a control setup, the No. 1 problem, the declaration said: "The (disarmament) program should provide for a strong control organization with inspection rights, including aerial reconnaissance, operating from the outset and developing in parallel with the disarmament measures."

The question of air sentinels is a big issue with the Russians. They regard Soviet Premier Niko-lai Bulganin's plan for ground control adequate and refuse to accept President Eisenhower's open skies plan now.

A second major difference concerns the West's insistence on a political settlement of such problems of German reunification, European security, and Korean unity before disarmament goes far.

Arab Allies Bicker Over Peace Pledge

ROME, April 4 (U. S. Press)—Bickering broke out between Arab allies today over cease-fire pledges made to U. S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

This developed as Hammarskjöld was in Rome competing a report to the Security Council on his Middle East peace mission.

Hammarskjöld leaves for New York by air tomorrow. Prospects are that Security Council members will take a few days to study the report of his 25-day mission and meet in about a week. Only then will the world know the precise pledges made by Israel on one side and Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon separately on the other.

Today's inter-Arab spat was short-lived but revealing. Lebanon accused Syria of betrayal by granting a cease-fire without a written Israeli promise not to divert irrigation waters from the Jordan River. It took a grim hour of discussion by the Syrian and Lebanese premiers at Beirut before Lebanon accepted the Syrian position that its letter covered the Jordan issue in another way.

Evidence of the "positive results" reported by Hammarskjöld came along the Arab-Israeli frontiers. In the past 24 hours the only incident reported was the killing of an alleged Jordanian infiltrator by an Israeli patrol.

"Things are going forward well," a Hammarskjöld aide said tonight. He had just come from the room where Hammarskjöld, his trustee supervisor, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, and the weary but happy U. N. peace team was editing a final report.

From Middle Eastern capitals, information reaching Rome began to clarify just what Hammarskjöld has achieved.

There had been two common questions among laymen:

1. When does the cease-fire take place?

The answer: There is no single cease-fire effective at a given moment. There are armistice agreements between Israel and—separately—Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. With each individual exchange of letters the cease-fire began on that front.

2. Does Hammarskjöld's phrase "positive results" actually mean unconditional cease-fire?

Answer: Until the Security Council releases the text of the letters, U. N. sources will not say. However, the Egyptian-Israeli agreement and the Syrian letters have been released and they call for a cease-fire in the accepted meaning of the word although not in any unconditional sense.

Youths Faked Draft Cards

BALTIMORE, May 4 (U. S. Press)—Five Maryland youths were held under $1,000 bond today on charges of printing and selling fake draft registration cards from the printing shop of the Maryland Training School for Boys.

Four of the youngsters were inmates of the training school allowed weekend privileges at their homes.

Those arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart were:

Jay D. Hollingsworth, 16, Denton; Keith F. Morris, 17, Hyattsville; Woodrow W. Lawrence Jr., 18, Silver Spring; Gerald A. Thomas, 17, Glen Burnie, and Philip W. Janney Jr., 16, Baltimore.

All but Janney were inmates of the State institution. Young Janney was employed by a Baltimore clothing firm.

D. K. Brown, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, said 150 fake draft cards were printed. He said most of them have been recovered.

The youths sold them to other juveniles to use as age cards so they could buy liquor, enter pool halls and play slot machines.

Brown said the cards were easy to recognize because of misspelling and because they were larger than genuine selective service cards.

Red China Plans Electronic Research

HONG KONG, May 4 (U. S. Press)—Kuo Mo Jo, president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, said today Red China is drafting a new 12-year plan for electronic research. He said the goal is to "bring China's backward scientific and technical level up to or approaching advanced international levels."

Peiping radio broadcast a speech by Kuo before a national conference of workers in the Red Chinese capital. He said Soviet experts now working in China were providing specific advice on the plan.

Newsman, CD

The big one is tentatively set for May 8 over nearby Bikini. It will be the first American drop of an H-bomb from a plane. Russians claim they dropped one last November.

There was no word how it may compare with the great H-bomb blast at Bikini March 1, 1954. That one was unofficially estimated at between 15 and 17 megatons—15 million to 17 million tons of TNT.

Son Loads Gun Father Used To Shoot Himself

FERNDAL, Md., May 4 (U. S. Press)—Police questioned today a young man who said his father killed himself with a gun he asked the son to load.

Police said 21-year-old Daniel James Lawler, of nearby Garland, told them after his father, Daniel Stanton Lawler, 44, fell he knelt beside him and helped him with his final prayers.

Police Chief Wilburg C. Wade said the youth told them he arrived home from work last night and found his mother and father arguing and his room disrupted.

"My father came into the room and I knocked him down. He begged me to give him my pistol so that he could shoot himself. I handed him the gun. It was not loaded."

"He put it to his head and pulled the trigger. Then I took the gun away from him and put a shell into it. I handed it back to him and said, 'There, it is loaded now.'"

"I turned my back on him and heard a shot."

"I heard him fall. Then I knelt down beside my father, put my hand on his head and helped him to say his dying prayers, the act of contrition."

Beirut Talks Quell Jordan River Unrest

BEIRUT, Lebanon, May 4 (U. S. Press)—The Lebanese accused Syria today of making a last-minute switch in her cease-fire pledge with Israel that left Lebanon and Jordan high and dry on the Jordan River issue.

But a quick conference in Beirut seemed to put out the fire.

Syrian Premier Said Ghazzi drove in from Damascus for an hour's conference with Lebanese Premier Abdullah Yaffi and Yaffi announced later:

"We discussed the text of the Syrian reply to (U. N. Secretary General) Hammarskjöld and the Lebanese government is satisfied with the Syrian text. Our attitudes are coordinated."

Beirut newspapers had accused Ghazzi of breaking a promise he made the Lebanese and Jordan governments, explaining:

Syria, Lebanon and Jordan earlier agreed jointly to give Hammarskjöld cease-fire pledges on condition that Israel pledge in writing not to divert the Jordan.

The newspapers declared Ghazzi changed the text of the Syrian agreement and gave Hammarskjöld what amounted to an unconditional cease-fire pledge and that left Lebanon and Jordan standing alone. Egypt earlier had agreed to an unconditional cease-fire.

Government sources said Ghazzi himself inspired the original joint agreement, insisting Israel should not resume work in a demilitarized zone to harness the Jordan for irrigation and power. They said Lebanon has little self-interest in the Jordan, but officials agreed to support Syria on Ghazzi's insistence.

The same sources reported Egypt induced Ghazzi to water down the original text. Syria is linked with Egypt and Saudi Arabia in a military alliance. Lebanon and Jordan are not.

Beirut newspapers published what they called Ghazzi's watered-down letter to Hammarskjöld:

"The Syrian government affirms its wish to respect the Security Council decisions taken in connection with the implementation of the Syrian-Israeli armistice, including the decision taken on Oct. 27, 1953. (This was a U. N. resolution deeming it desirable that Israel halt work on the Jordan project). I consider that this attitude of the Syrian government should be coupled with a similar attitude to be taken by the other side in the armistice agreement."

Man Killed, Another Hurt In Auto Crash

BALTIMORE, May 4 (U. S. Press)—Robert H. Land, 25, of Dalton, Ga., was killed and another youth was injured today when their car ran into the rear of a truck on fog-covered U. S. 40.

Both Land and David A. Brady, 21, of Mishawaka, Ind., who was taken to Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, were stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Williams Urges 'Racial Integrity'

BALTIMORE, May 4 (U. S. Press)—George Washington Williams, who has been campaigning for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate on an anti-integration platform, today reminded the electorate that voters of "both races" could find in his candidacy a chance "to maintain their racial integrity."

Soviet Repeals Two Laws Which Aided Purges

MOSCOW, May 4 (U. S. Press)—The Soviet Union has repealed two laws of Joseph Stalin that helped secret police get treason and sabotage confessions for the purge trials of the 1930s.

The bulletin of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) revealed this in an issue that came into the hands of Western correspondents today.

It published a decree of the Soviet's Presidium that nullified the two laws and forbade the police to use "special procedures" in investigating persons accused under the articles of the criminal code on treason, terrorism and damage of state property by sabotage.

Both laws were promulgated by Stalin, one on Dec. 1, 1934, and the other on Sept. 14, 1937. They permitted the police to bypass what is now declared to be normal Socialist legal procedure to obtain confessions.

It was the latest step in a campaign to do away with extra legal features of Soviet justice such as prevailed in the last years of Stalin's rule. He was in power for three decades as party chief or prime minister until he died in 1953.

Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev demanded such a policy in a speech at the party's 20th Congress here in February.

Two weeks ago the country's leading law review, Soviet State and Law, called for "the strictest observance of legality" in investigations and prosecutions. It said trial by confession "denies the need for a court to establish the absolute truth in each case."

The next day the bulletin of the Supreme Soviet disclosed that the Presidium had set up a special watchdog committee to inspect and supervise the work of state security organs, criminal and civil courts, and prisons.

The law review called for guarantees of "the rights and interests of citizens" and accused the late Andrei V. Vishinsky of a "glaring violation" of Socialist legality as prosecutor at the purge trials.

Civil Defense Said Inadequate

BALTIMORE, May 4 (U. S. Press)—Col. Frank Milani, Baltimore's civil defense director, told a congressional subcommittee here today that the volunteer system has failed to produce an adequate system of civil defense in the H-bomb age.

Milani declared volunteers should be replaced by a small, highly trained cadre financed by the Federal government. He agreed with committee suggestions that the source of such manpower might be selective service rejects, conscientious objectors and military reservists.

Milani testified before a subcommittee of the House Military Operations Committee which is surveying civil defense problems at local levels in target areas throughout the nation. Baltimore is the first city to be visited.

Rep. Holifield (D-Calif.), subcommittee chairman, commented that "dependence on volunteer help seems to be in about the same shape throughout the country."

He said people are "apathetic and indifferent. They don't seem to realize the dangers we are facing."

After telling the three teachers he ran outside where he was captured and disarmed by two laborers on a school annex construction job.

Young Prevatt came here in March to live with a married brother. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Prevatt, live in Raleigh. The father works in a textile weaving plant.

Principal Neil Rosser of the Hugh Morson School in Raleigh said Prevatt was "an average student" as far as ability was concerned but had a "bad temper" and was suspended for striking a patrol boy before being expelled for threatening a teacher who caught him smoking.

The boy's mother, in Raleigh, wept hysterically when told what happened today. "I just feel sorry for those poor people," she sobbed.

Study Shows April Cold, Wet In Area

During the month of April, the Geological Survey team stationed here compiled complete observations of stream flow, water run off and weather reports in the North Branch Potomac River drainage basin.

The observed mean daily flow of the river at Cumberland was 2,447 cubic feet per second or 1,601 million gallons per day. This is 111 per cent of the 26-year April average. The daily flow varied from 956 cubic feet per second on April 30 to 8,770 cubic feet per second on April 7. This was a variation for the month of 5,050 million gallons daily.

Seasonal storage, the report notes, at Savage River reservoir caused an average decrease of 146 cubic feet per second or 94.4 million gallons a day. This represents 5.9 per cent of the flow of the river at the Wiley Ford gauge.

Total precipitation at Cumberland, as reported by the Weather Bureau, was 3.07 inches, or 0.19 inches above the April average. The average daily temperature was 50.2 degrees, which was 1.9 degrees below normal.

The record was completed and approved by Ewell H. Mohler Jr., engineer in charge.

Acetate Bulk Yarn Is Being Produced At Amcelle Plant

The Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation is producing a new acetate bulked yarn, it was learned yesterday.

The bulked yarn is being made in limited quantities, both natural and solution dyed, and is expected to be in volume production shortly.

The extent of acceptance by the trade will determine the extent of future production at the local plant.

Local Children Bitten By Dog

June 20 Set For Family Picnic

A talk by Miss Mary Walsh and reports featured the joint meeting of the Literature and Community Service groups of the Woman's Civic Club Thursday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Edgar Vandegrift announced the annual family picnic to be at her home June 20. Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, president of the Civic Club, announced that May 17 would be the annual meeting, held in the form of a musical tea, honoring guests, new members and officers.

Mrs. Frank W. Spoerl, chairman of the Literature group, introduced Miss Walsh, who spoke on "Analyzing Handwriting." She spoke about the different ways handwriting reveals personality traits. She stressed, just as there are no two fingerprints exactly alike, there are no two handwritings alike. Miss Walsh has made a hobby of handwriting analysis for a number of years. Dr. Dorothy Howard, originally scheduled to speak on "Australia: The People Speak," was ill and unable to attend.

Presiding at the business session, Mrs. J. L. Towler, chairman of the Community Service group, thanked all for their cooperation and assistance during her term of office. Mrs. William A. Cook gave the secretary-treasurer's report. Mrs. Anthony Saeli, chairman of the recent fashion show, card party gave her report and Mrs. Edgar Kendall, Ticket chairman, reported receipts of $372.95 to date. Mrs. Albert Hargreaves, Scholarship chairman, reported she attended the capping exercises of Sacred Heart Hospital to see the nurse group sponsors.

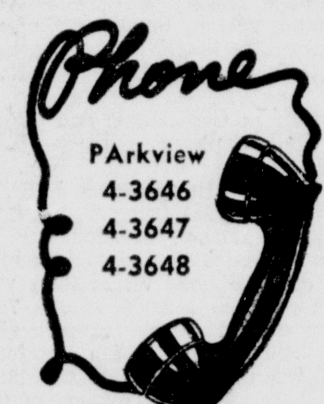

The committee for the luncheon consisted of Mrs. Norman Taylor, Mrs. Kendall, Mrs. B. E. Sherwood, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. G. Bates Chaires.

Circle Plans Sale

Circle 6 of the WSCS of Centre Street Methodist Church formulated plans for a rummage sale June 12. Mrs. H. M. Shank presided. Mrs. Harry B. Simpson gave the devotionals and read "The Whistle," by Benjamin Franklin. Miss Grace B. Steiner, who arranged the program, reported on the annual Baltimore conference meeting.

A new member, Mrs. L. D. Mahew, was introduced and a gift was presented to Mrs. Harold May. Twenty-four members attended. Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. R. O'Neal, Mrs. Bertha Miller and Mrs. Shank.

The program consisted of music and talks.

Convention Set Sunday

Miss Grace Marie Bartlett, Grafton, W. Va., member of the national Advisory committee and past national sorority president, will be the principal speaker at the Eastern District, Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle convention here tomorrow. She also is to conduct the installation of officers.

Iota Epsilon Chapter, city; and Iota Pi Chapter, Keyser, W. Va., will be hostess for the meeting in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel, beginning with a luncheon at 1 o'clock.

Besides the organizational meeting and brief remarks by various members, there will be a musical program.

Society To Hold Supper May 15

The WSCS of Emmanuel Methodist Church had a guest speaker and planned a baked ham and roast beef supper for May 15 at the meeting in the social room. Installation of officers will be held Sunday.

Mrs. Ernest Shanholzer had charge of the worship service. Mrs. Wesley Taylor presided during the business session and introduced the speaker, Mrs. Harry Bender, Flintstone, Promotion secretary of the Hagerstown district WSCS, who spoke on the "Joy of Giving."

Invitation Accepted By Conference

An invitation from St. Luke's Lutheran Church for the fall rally in October and the spring conference was accepted at the 42nd annual meeting of the Mountain Conference of United Lutheran Church Women of Maryland, held in St. Paul's church.

Officers were elected and a change was made in the constitution.

According to change in the organization structure, instead of department secretaries there will be four committees: Mrs. Carl Reuschel, St. John's Education; Mrs. Alvin Krieling, St. Paul's, Frothingbury Christian Service; Mrs. Harry Utterback, St. Paul's, Cumberland, Offering and Mrs. Albert Shade, St. Luke's, Membership.

Mrs. John N. Miller was elected president; Mrs. F. J. Eckert, vice president; Mrs. Cromwell Zembower, secretary; Miss Helene McKee, treasurer and Mrs. George Alexander, historian.

Since it was the last year of the departments, secretary reports were given. They included Mrs. Shade, Promotion; Mrs. Utterback, Patron and Protege; Mrs. Clarence DeHaven, Mission Study; Mrs. Clifford Crowe, Student; Mrs. D. A. Ross, Special Aides; Mrs. William Yingling, Life and In Memoriam; Mrs. Harmon Heller, Bulletin; Mrs. Jack Means, Deaconesses; Mrs. Robert Bane, Magazine; Mrs. Frankland Sine, Thank Offering; and Mrs. Carl Reuschel, Education.

The theme of the conference was "Evangelize, Fulfill Your Ministry." The afternoon session was opened by Mrs. Bruce Scharf and greetings by Mrs. Ralph Taylor, both from St. Paul's, city. The response was given by Mrs. Alan Hager, St. Paul's, Frothingbury. Mrs. Miller conducted the business session and special music consisted of a vocal solo, "Teach Me To Pray," by Miss Virginia Lee Beall. St. Paul's, city, accompanied at the organ by Miss Twila Brotemarkle. Speakers at the afternoon session were Mrs. Donald F. Brake, Washington, president of the Maryland Synodical; Mrs. Oren W. Strine, Walkersville, treasurer of the synodical; and Mrs. A. R. Fisher, Baltimore, state promotional secretary. Mrs. Brake conducted the installation. Mrs. Merle Schumaker, St. John's, city, led the "Service of Remembrance." Mrs. Shirley McCullough and Mrs. Eugene Bittner sang, "The Lord Is My Shepherd." Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, St. Luke's, conducted the election and constitution changes.

Music during the supper and social hour was by a trio consisting of Mrs. Vernon Cost, violinist; Mrs. Howard Irwin, cellist; and Mrs. William Ludman, pianist.

Rev. H. T. Bowersox, D. D., conducted a vesper service at the evening session, when Miss Marian Potts, retired missionary from Japan, spoke on "Japan Open for Evangelism."

Jaynees Change Meeting Date

The monthly meeting of the Jaynees has been changed to May 15, instead of the ninth, when it will be at the home of Mrs. J. Brooke Fradiska, LaVale.

Mrs. Oscar Gurley will preside at the business session at 8 o'clock, when final plans for a rummage sale the 19th will be formulated and revision of the by-laws discussed.

Mr., Mrs. Duckworth Will Mark Anniversary May 13

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Duckworth, 118 Waverly Street, Westernport, will celebrate their golden wedding May 13, with an open house, from 2 until 8 o'clock. Friends and relatives are invited.

Mrs. Bottorf, Hugo Keller Top Field

THE CHURCH POINTS THE WAY

Thousands of columns have been published in American newspapers about Juvenile Delinquency. Investigations have been held in scores of cities, and many witnesses have been called in an effort to find the cause and the cure.

In all this sudden excitement little has been said about the lack of religion in the homes and hearts of these thousands of unfortunate youths. Far too much emphasis has been placed on inadequate play facilities, too little discipline, too few policemen, etc.

Juvenile Delinquency is primarily a moral and religious problem. Neither jail nor playground, as necessary as they are, will do much to foster love, goodwill, self-respect and charity in the heart of a person. The development of love and charity in the life of a youth needs constant day by day cultivation. But how can a parent properly train a child if that parent has had no religious or spiritual training or background and lives a selfish and faithless life? How can a parent teach a youth the fundamental spiritual values if that parent does not even attempt to live an exemplary life and does not admit his or her dependence upon God, our creator?

Down through the ages the Church has been the bulwark against crime, sin and evil. Those who would solve the problem of delinquency in young or old should seek the way of the Church, for those who need spiritual healing should seek spiritual treatment. The Church stands ready to help parent and youth alike.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Annual Splurge May Lead To Thrift

The time is approaching when nearly half of today's young, unmarried "career girls" will embark on glamorous vacations for two weeks, after having skimped on nearly everything they purchased during the preceding 50 weeks of the year to accumulate the necessary money.

Forty-eight per cent of today's career girls follow this pattern, according to a survey of thrift habits by a Chicago banking firm.

The girls carry lunches most of the time, forego frequent movies and spend evenings watching television, reading or sewing. They wangle a ride to and from work whenever they can. And their dimes and dollars accumulate until they rank next to the Christmas clubs in seasonal savings.

But there comes a time in summer or winter—the girls shun spring or fall vacations—and the scene changes. They leave their workaday routine for a world of glamor in some glittering vacation spot. Many of them hope to find wealthy, young husbands.

Most of the girls, the survey shows, stay at one of the best hotels, or, if it's a lake or ocean cruise, travel first class. These gals, who have hoarded pennies for 50 weeks, spend from $400 to $800 during their two weeks' vacation.

Is it worth it? It must be from the woman's standpoint, because many of them do it several years in a row.

The girls who do not conform to the prevailing vogue of the two-weeks vacation splurge save their money for various purposes. Thirty per cent save for household purchases when they marry; 10 per cent for automobiles of their own; 6 per cent for fur coats or jewelry; 6 per cent for unfabulous vacations, further education, or for a plain old "rainy day."

The young working girl who sacrifices for 50 weeks and splurges for two does not build a habit of careless spending. Instead, the survey shows, her savings plan is easily transformed into an instinct for thrift and self-denial aimed at more serious goals later in life.

Hiss At Princeton

Undoubtedly the most significant fact about Alger Hiss's lecture at Princeton is that Hiss said nothing that was interesting, startling or even important. He delivered a polite lecture on Geneva with some references to Yalta and added neither light nor heat to either conference. Whatever he knows about Yalta that has not been published, he kept to himself although this could have been an opportunity to make an invaluable contribution to history.

The reporters and photographers who went to Princeton to hear the intimate revelations of an ex-spy were fooled. There was an overtone of scholarship and a whimsical response to questions, but no revelations. They might just as well have stayed at home and watched some escapist drama on television. What they should have noted was that the small Princeton society which gave Hiss rising plaudits at the end of his short speech has nothing to remember except that it did something extraordinary; it brought an ex-convict to Princeton to lecture not on crime but on history and international politics.

Perhaps some professor of sociology will one day invite Lucky Luciano to lecture on the gentle art of dope pushing. Certainly Lucky knows more about it than any academic sociologist. It could even happen some day that a professor in the department of international relations or a student society specializing in this field will invite Burgess and Maclean to come to the United States to lecture on high-class espionage and how not to get caught. Burgess might provide interesting overtones.

That is about all that the Hiss lecture at Princeton amounted to. It is part of a program to rehabilitate Alger Hiss. He naturally has a right to aspire to rehabilitation and it is understandable that his friends would want to assist him. It is also understandable that he should believe that time will work in his favor and that a younger generation, like these boys at Princeton, will wonder what it was all about and not take the trouble to find out. Nobody will get college credits for finding out.

But when it comes to rehabilitation, Alger Hiss will be up against the fact that he has not told his story in public. Rehabilitation can only follow a public explanation of his extraordinary conduct. Alger Hiss went to prison not for espionage but for perjury. In a word, after two trials, it was held by court and jury that he had not told the truth concerning his personal relations with a Soviet Russian espionage ring while he was in the State Department in an important position. That is the record that stands.

It is possible to say that Hiss has paid his debt to society and ought never again to be molested or questioned. But has he paid his debt to society? The problem here is one of morals. Had Hiss been convicted of embezzlement, of burglary, of kidnapping, it would be possible to say that serving a period in prison pays one's debt to society. But Alger Hiss was convicted of perjury in relation to espionage. It would seem to me that the only way he can purge himself of the offense is to tell the verifiable truth concerning the espionage; otherwise the question will always arise to plague him as to whether he really was a spy.

It is a tough problem because we must take it for granted that Hiss does not believe that he will benefit by blandly announcing to the world that what Whittaker Chambers and others said is true and that he did act for Russia when he must be ill-advised that silence about his case will achieve rehabilitation in public opinion. Yet morally there is nothing less that he can do, because the record stands and needs to be erased if he is to be accepted again as having a place in our society. Perhaps he does not care; then why did he go to Princeton to deliver an address in his chosen field? Before Princeton, whoever is his agent in such matters, Hiss does care and does seek rehabilitation. His task then is to humble himself, as one must do, before the truth, whatever he knows it to be.

Candidate Harriman's Suppressed Fears

Le May Testimony Supports MacArthur's Position

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—General Curtis E. Le May, head of the Strategic Air Command of the U.S. Air Force, has made a sensational revelation. Historians of the Korean War will note it with extraordinary interest. He confirms, in effect, what General Douglas MacArthur said five years ago—that the United States could have won the war in Korea and could have changed the whole face of things in the Far East by using maximum power against the Red Chinese bases in Manchuria.

General Le May didn't discuss the Korean War nor General MacArthur's views as such, but his answer to a prepared question leaves no doubt that the United States made a fatal mistake in failing to press the war to a victorious conclusion in Korea in 1950 and 1951. Here is the question asked by the Senate Armed Forces Subcommittee and General Le May's answer.

Maintains Advantage

"Q. Does the Strategic Air Command now have combat effectiveness sufficient to enable it to discharge its principal responsibility?"

"A. Yes; at the present time and in spite of recent Soviet gains in aircraft and weapons technology and production, it is considered that the Strategic Air Command continues to maintain sufficient advantage over the Soviet offensive capability to enable accomplishment of its primary roles.

"We must recognize, however, a new factor has entered the equation, and that is that the Soviet Union has a long-range attack capability that it did not have five years ago. This factor creates the possibility of an initial surprise attack upon the Strategic Air Command which, in turn, would reduce its deterrent power and retaliatory capability.

"However, under any reasonable set of assumptions, we believe we now have the capability of winning any war the Soviets might start. We are not capable of winning it without this country's receiving very serious damage. Five years ago we could have won the war without the country's receiving comparatively serious damage."

Decision Encouraged Reds

Five and six years ago means 1950 and 1951. That was the time when the European allies of the United States faltered and influenced the Truman administration not to apply maximum power in Korea. The European allies had only token forces in Korea. America and South Korea, however, had hundreds of thousands of troops in the battle area. The decision to refrain from bombing the bases in Manchuria and the Communist supply lines encouraged Red China to press on with its major intervention in November 1950. The result of this conflict was a total of more than 33,000 American boys killed and 103,000 wounded. The casualties for South Korea were many times that number.

When General MacArthur, who was the United Nations commander-in-chief in Korea, begged in 1950 for authority to fight back against the enemy, his request was turned down. The excuse made was that he was "insubordinate," although no hearing was ever given him by Mr. Truman. General MacArthur's recommendations were criticized at the time by Truman officials as likely to plunge the nation into a third

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Prime Minister Nehru wants to reduce India's 27 states into five. Could be the greatest squeeze play of the decade.

At a party thrown by Egypt's King Farouk 840 bottles of whisky were consumed — news item. Everyone must have had an unworking good time.

A St. Louis expert suggests city streets be built in curves and arcs, eliminating corners, to lessen accidents. Sounds like a mighty good idea — even if he is talking in circles.

In ancient Egypt women frequently dyed their hair — Factographs. Wonder how Cleopatra looked as a platinum blonde?

Are we having a scarcity of monsters? It's been months since we read anything about the Abominable Snowman and the Loch Ness Sea Serpent.

First there was the Iron Curtain, then the Bamboo—now a Yugoslav Foreign Office spokesman refers to a "Sand Curtain." Sounds like a pretty fragile argument to us.

May Predicted Peak Month For German Measles

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

May is the predicted peak month for German measles (rubella) in many sections of the U.S.A. Since the disease is mild and of short duration, it will not cause too much difficulty or affect mortality statistics. The malady is of concern only when it develops in women during the first three months of pregnancy.

Should it occur during this trimester there is a 50-50 chance the baby will be born with defective vision, hearing, or heart. This possibility is not mentioned to start a scare campaign. It is done to caution pregnant women who are susceptible to German measles to try to protect themselves against the disease. Milady should avoid crowds, public conveyances, and victims of the ailment.

There are no preventive vaccines except gamma globulin, which is of questionable value. The possibility of a more efficient vaccine in the near future is good. The causative virus has been isolated and, by duplicating the work done in making the polio vaccine, our scientists may be able to obtain a satisfactory serum against rubella.

Children are most susceptible to German measles and usually develop it 14 to 23 days after exposure. Many little ones have symptoms resembling a mild cold for 12 to 24 hours preceding the rash but until the eruption breaks out, diagnosis is impossible. Other telltale signs the swelling and tenderness of the glands along the back of the neck.

But these findings are not as positive as the appearance of rose colored, slightly elevated lesions varying in size from a pinhead to a pea. The outbreak spreads quickly over the entire body, including the face. During the early stages it may resemble a scarlet fever eruption but later looks more like regular measles.

The blemishes disappear as fast as they come, generally within one to three days. One attack produces everlasting immunity. By the time the rash vanishes, the disease is no longer contagious. Youngsters are permitted to return to school within four to five days from the onset of the skin manifestations.

There is no treatment, but this has made little difference in children because German measles is fleeting and is followed only rarely by complications. On the other hand, now that we know more about the virus, future research may show that the organism is involved in other conditions.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Wall Street banker took his wife to Paris where he closed a big bond deal. Final signing of the papers took longer than he had expected, so he called the hotel and told the French maid, "Please tell madame to go to bed and wait for me."

"Bien, monsieur," answered the maid, "but who shall I say called?"

Another new maid turned up at the Vanderbricks to help at a big dance. "From 7 to 8," Mrs. Vanderbrick instructed her, "you are to stand at the ballroom entrance and call the guests' names as they arrive."

"What jolly fun that will be!" enthused the maid. "I know a couple of beauties!"

And a very social Mrs. Broadbeam told her new maid: "When we give a big party for the em-bassy set, you may have to help the butler upstairs."

Secretary Benson Now Favors Soil Bank But Wants GOP Label On It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The backstage maneuvering over a farm bill has been happening with such lightning speed that the press, let alone the public, can't keep up with it. Sel-dom, however, has politics been so wrapped up in any legislation, even in an election year.

With dire reports coming from the farm belt with Ike's veto of the farm bill, the Republicans were almost frantic in their desire to pass something to put immediate cash in the farmer's pocket. Secretary of Agriculture Benson was also frantic in his desire to get credit for the soil bank.

Appearing before the House Agriculture Committee, Benson was asked by Chairman Harold Cooley, North Carolina Democrat:

"Mr. Secretary, you have presented something you call the soil bank. But you overlook the fact that in 1934 we spent $637,000,000 starting to build up the soil for this country. And from that year on, we continued to build up the soil. Every year that you've been in office, however, you have asked us for less and less money for soil. You asked us last year for $175,000,000 and we voted you $250,000,000.

"And now suddenly you want what you call a soil bank.

Pre-Election Bonus

"I remember last February," continued Cooley, "I wrote you a letter asking you in detail about setting aside an acreage reserve in the form of a soil bank. And you kept my letter from February until July. Then, after conferring with all your assistants, you finally answered that it was too expensive and impractical.

"Now, can you tell me today," concluded Cooley, "one authority you need for a soil bank that you don't already have in the bill passed 20 years ago by the Democrats?"

Benson turned to his lawyers for advice. Before they could answer, Cooley continued:

"I can think of two—authority to make long-term contracts with farmers and authority to protect the future basic allotments of farmers.

"All right," said Cooley, "you send me in writing the authority you need and we'll pass it."

Benson, however, didn't warm up to the idea at all. He wanted a brand new bill. The White House also asked for authority to make advance payments to farmers out of the soil-bank program to the tune of $500,000,000.

This pre-election bonus outraged Democratic leaders in general and Congressman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi in particular.

"If a Democratic president were to recommend paying the farmer part of his 1957 income in 1956, just before the November election, as Eisenhower has recommended," observed Whitten, "the press would carry big headlines accusing the Democrats of trying to borrow the farm vote—which incidentally would be borrowing it with the farmer's own money loaned against his own next year's depleted income."

Brannan Plan

His dander up, Whitten called his Appropriations Subcommittee and OK'd a $1,200,000,000 appropriation based on the old Henry Wallace Soil Bank Bill which had been on the statute books for 20 years. This would have given an immediate payment instead of borrowing against the future.

The House Rules Committee, however, rejected the appropriation on the ground that the Henry Wallace law needed amendments.

By this time Cooley had gone back to North Carolina where he faces a tough primary battle on the race issue, due to the fact that he refused to sign the "southern manifesto" against the Supreme Court. Reached on the telephone, Cooley dictated a 29-line amendment to the Henry Wallace Soil Bank Law which brought it completely up to date.

Republicans, however, refused to accept it. Even Republicans from the farm belt who had voted for the first farm bill said no. What they wanted was not a modernized, revamped Democratic bill, but a new bill bearing the trade mark of Benson and Eisenhower.

After counting noses, the Democratic high command figured it was short 20 House Republicans necessary to pass the Whitten-Cooley soil plan.

So overnight, Cooley proposed a modified Brannan plan with a subsidy to farmers.

"If you want to put money in the farmers' pocket," he told Republicans, "let's do it outright without any subterfuge. Let's not borrow from their next year's income.

"You already have a Brannan plan for wool. A crop chiefly raised by the big Republican sheepmen of Utah and Wyoming," argued Cooley. "And Benson is supporting sugar at 98 per cent of parity—a crop highly important to his state of Utah. So let's be fair and vote the Brannan plan for other crops."

There were howls of protest from Republicans, however, and the modified Brannan plan was dropped.

Thus jockeyed political leaders back and forth in an effort to win the farm vote.

Merry-Go-Round

Roberta Regan, wife of the ex-congressman from Texas, came back to green and springlike Washington to tell friends about dust storms. "On Friday, Lubbock comes blowing by," she said. "The next day El Paso blows by. We figure Albuquerque will be next!"

The Kaleidoscope

By Brother Barnabas

Life would be dull indeed if all our days were alike. But each day differs from all the rest in some particular, and there's no telling whether this very day may be the most outstanding of your life.

Any man may become distinguished if he lives long enough. Methusalem had to live 969 years before he made the obituary column in the public press.

This columnist is a mere protoplast by comparison, having coruscated in this space three years and this is his third birthday.

Hypothetical candles grace the metaphorical cake with which he is being toasted, while the editor assures him that after three more years of servitude he may move up to the higher echelon of a journeyman printer. Selah.

Cure For Monotony

Monotony is the bane of existence. To escape it women have their clubs, their flower shows, their political powwows, their civic and charitable enterprises, and so win orchids from their husbands.

Imagine husbands facing the same stack of papers, documents and files, and the same stenographer day by day without diversification. Is it any wonder some of them become bearded, befuddled and bedraggled, and turn to mountain dew in the hope of becoming able-bodied?

If I could I would have a built-in kaleidoscope in the anatomy of every man afflicted with ennui, so that with every turn of the optical instrument bright and sparkling colors and designs would appear casting a sheen over life's banalities.

It is surprising how big consequences often turn on little incidents. A word spoken in season, a smile or a frown or a gesture may break a man's spirit or a woman's heart.

Coming down the street one morning, your honor was penniless, save for a lone nickel. By chance he found a penny which some penny-pincher had accidentally dropped on the sidewalk. His purse thus replenished he was able to buy a paper in which he read the sage maxim: "Take care of the pennies, and the dollars will take care of themselves."

When knighthood was in flower, King Edward III danced with Joan, the Countess of Salisbury, at a court ball. Joan's garter accidentally slipped to the floor and to avert the attention of the guests the king gallantly bound the blue band around his own knee, saying as he did it, "Honi soit qui mal y pense!"—"Shamed be he who thinketh evil of it."

Many Knights These Days

From that episode originated the "Most Noble Order of the Garter," the most blue-blooded of all aristocracies.

Now there are knights in every walk of life: knight of the cleaver (a butcher); knight of the needle (a tailor); knight of the pestle (a druggist); knight of the topiary (a barber); knight of the kitchen (a husband who gets his own breakfast to allow his wife to sleep; in after a night at bridge).

One of the knights appeared at the gates of St. Peter and asked for admittance on the grounds that he belonged. The guardian replied that in heaven there is no night. The way to win an argument is not to argue. "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still."

Don't debate with your child; demonstrate. Give him your conclusions which will probably be right, even if you have to turn his kaleidoscope over your knee.

A mother wrote me the other day: "Patsy, 10, is winding up the fourth grade and doing very well, especially with certain selected boy friends."

One day Patsy said, "Come, mother and see a bunch of one-legged ducks." "That can't be, all ducks have two legs." Mother looked and sure enough there every-one stood on one leg.

Then she said "Shoo," and they all waddled away on two legs. "Y-a-a-s, but I didn't say Shoo." And that is a child's logic.

The cryptic designs and color combinations found in rugs and carpets are often obtained from the kaleidoscope. What pleases one customer may not appeal to another.

Hormones On Vacation

One has an eye for beauty, another for symmetry, still another for durability. So with choosing a wife. It is no fault of hers that she has a sloping chin or walks pigeon-toed. The hormones may have been taking a vacation at the time.

"God has made everything beautiful in its time" (Eccl. 3:11). The old-fashioned costumes we saw on our streets last week belonged to the gay nineties. The hug-me-tites and the kiss-me-quicks seemed outlandish, but all agreed that a rose by any other name is just as sweet.

The kaleidoscope is mathematically and chromoscopically correct, and that quality is reflected in our idioms and mores. We are living in an age of realism. We call a spade a spade. We have abandoned ancient pruderies, but retained our modesty. It is still de rigueur to say with "The Veep," "I would rather be a servant in the house of the Lord than to sit in the seats of the mighty."

"Forenoon, afternoon, and night,"—that's monotony.

"Make this forenoon sublime, this afternoon a hymn, this night a prayer, and time is conquered and thy crown is won." And that's the antidote, says

BROTHER BARNABAS

In 1781, Thomas Jefferson, a before-his-time farmer, tried growing tomatoes. But few persons dared eat them until some 25 years after they became a favorite food in New Orleans. This was along about 1812. (The French probably brought the seed to New Orleans.)

Stainless steel's growing popularity is attested by the fact that more than half of the table flatware now sold is made of this metal.

Fort Hill School's Sentinels wall-popped Allegany High's Campers yesterday by the score of 10-0 at Fort Hill and threw the race for city baseball honors into a triple tie. LaSalle, Allegany and Fort Hill now own 1-1 records in the triangular race for the city championship. Score Eight In 5th.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's defending champions exploded for eight runs in the fifth inning to turn the game into a rout after leading 1-0 up to that time. During the rousing 5th Fort Hill sent 15 men to the plate. The big blow of the inning was a triple from the bat of Bill Hancock with the bases loaded. The Sentinels pilfered a total of 12 bases during the game and in the big frame Galen McGregor and Clarence "Pooch" Lewis pilfered home. Edgar Parsons committed a theft of home plate in the 6th frame for the Hilltoppers' final tally.

Jesse Markley went the route for the victors, yielded four hits and struck out ten. Three of the hits were doubles, two by Ronnie Diehl and the other by Shaw.

Arthur Washington, first of four Allegany pitchers was tagged with the loss but he wasn't around during the fifth inning fireworks.

Arthur Washington, first of four Allegany pitchers, was tagged with the loss. He was followed in order to the hillcock by Don and Bob Payne and George Hale. The win was Markley's third in the Bi-State Conference against one loss. His overall record of 4-1.

Diehl obtained three of the Campers' four hits while Hancock and Parsons shared four of the Sentinels' ten blows. Parsons swiped five hasecs.

Ritter Posts 3rd Win

LaSalle High School's Explorers remained tied with Fort Hill for the leadership of the conference by beating Beall High School at Frostburg, 6-1, behind the five-hit twirling of Lefty Frank Ritter who made his record 3-0 for the campaign.

Wilson's triple and Llewellyn's double produced Beall's lone tally in the first inning. Ritter hurled shutout ball and yielded only three blows in the remaining six stanzas.

LaSalle solved the offerings of Richards for nine safeties. Van Parsons sparked the attack with singles and Regis Fair, top hitter in the conference, upped his average to .523 by connecting safely twice in three trips. He now has 12 hits in 23 official times at bat.

Needles, 2-1 Favorite, Defies Early "N" Jinx

17 May Start Today
In Richest Of 82
Races In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4 (AP)—The day of decision rolls around tomorrow when the favored but eccentric Needles and 16 other 3-year-olds take a bead on the 82nd and richest of all Kentucky Derbies.

Barring late changes and if all parade postward at 4:30 p.m. EST the swag will total $167,650 compared with $152,500 last year. The winner of the race, to be televised and broadcast nationally (CBS) from 4:15 to 4:45 p.m. EST, will net $123,550. Swaps earned a record $108,400 last year for Rex Ellsworth, the Californian who'll be represented again by Terrang, the Santa Anita Derby hero.

Needles 2-1 Choice

Practically all of the opponents of Needles, the Florida colt with zany ideas, are busily trying to explain ways the 2 to 1 choice can be beaten. Then, in the next breath, they're all but admitting he can't lose.

Critics of Needles have a lot of points:

1. He won't train in the morning without almost having to be bull whipped.

2. The colt hasn't raced since he won the Florida Derby March 24.

3. He has drawn the No. 1 post, and such a slow starter may find himself shut off in the rush.

4. And, he has the old "N" jinx riding. No horse with a name starting with "N" has won the derby. Native Dancer and Nashua are recent excellent examples.

Set Florida Record

Needles came roaring back behind to mow down 14 rivals in the Flamingo at Hialeah Feb. 25. He then rested until the Florida Derby when he came from nowhere again and broke the track record while beating 13 others.

True, Needles got a 5-pound weight concession there for being a Florida-bred but the experts claim he'd have won regardless. His daddy was Ponder, and his grandpappy was Pensive, and both won their Kentucky Derbies coming from far off the pace. Needles carried 117 pounds in Florida, and all starters tomorrow must tote 126.

Ben and Jimmy Jones of Calumet Farm are ready to shoot both barrels, Fabius and Pintor Lea, and the same goes for Syl Veitch, who trains Career Boy and Head Man for C. V. Whitney. They will be the only couplings, since T. A. Grissom's Reaping Right was withdrawn officially this morning.

Reaping Right, Louisiana Derby winner, injured a leg yesterday and Grissom will rely solely on Invalidate, who set the pace Tuesday when Fabius copped the one mile Derby Trial.

Other Starters

Completing the lineup are Dino Lazzi's Count Chic, second in the Florida Derby; Joe Gavegnano's High King, W. E. Britt's No Regrets, J. J. Gregory and H. D. Maggio's Ben A. Jones, the Companas Stable's Besomer, Mrs. Helen Kellogg's Come On Red, the Hasty House Farm's Black Emperor, Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate's Jean Baptiste, the Reverie Knott Farm's King O' Swords, and the Brandywine Stable's Countermend. Come On Red won't start if the track is fast, which isn't likely.

Fabius finished third in the Flamingo, while Pintor Lea took third back of Needles and Count Chic in the Florida Derby, and Fabius was eighth. Terrang was 13th, but had suffered a slight injury, his stable reported.

In the No. 2 post alongside of Needles will be Career Boy, and since both practically walk out of the gate they'll certainly be in the caboose going down past the strawling grandstands the first first time.

Count Chic and High King, two other laggards in Nos. 6 and 7 posts, also figured to way back at first. Then there is Countermend, way out in left field with the No. 18 spot. He runs the same way.

Willie To Ride Fabius

The Calumet entry remains the 3-1 second choice, with the Whitney pair next at 4-1. Countermend, second in the derby trial, was 8-1. Calumet's Ben Jones said it had been decided Willie Hartack would ride Fabius, with Bobby Baird taking Pintor Lea.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 4 (INS)—"A Bell for Adano," chosen as the Ford Star Jubilee for June 2, will have Barry Sullivan as the star. Anna Maria Alberghetti will play the little Italian girl, and, let me say, this sounds like something everyone will want to see and hear. David Rose is conducting the musical score by Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz.

Barry, who has just finished "Julie" with Doris Day, will also star in "Dragon Wells Massacre," the Lindsey Parsons production for Allied Artists. Barry seems to have a very busy schedule and has little time to himself these days.

Of all the offers made Maurice Chevalier he has accepted the one to play the father of Audrey Hepburn in "Adriane," which will be made in Paris. When I had dinner with Audrey and Mel Ferrer, she told me how delighted she is that Maurice is going to be in her picture.

"I've always thought he was wonderful," she said, "and his sense of comedy is so great."

I had dinner with Audrey and Mel at Perino's, then I went on to hear Patti Page at the Coconut Grove. Patti excelled even her talented self and was called back again and again. Charlie O'Curran, who arranged the lighting for her act, and who always has helped Patti, stood in the wings while she was on stage.

Gloria Grahame, who lingers on and on in Paris, refusing to come home, will be paid a visit by her estranged husband Cy Howard before many days. He is leaving for Paris after a series of conferences with Hal Wallis on a college musical. The idea is for the new singing sensation Elvis Presley.

Speaking of Presley, a funny thing happened. Some students at a high school in Kansas telephoned Paramount that they'd heard he was dead, and the girls refused to return to school until they found out just what had happened to their idol.

How quickly these new favorites climb to the top, and how quickly they sometimes drop to the bottom.

David Niven writes me that his beautiful wife Hjoridis is recuperating from major surgery but still has to spend two more weeks in bed. Says David, "By that time I'll be finished with 'Silken Affair' and we'll take a leisurely motor trip through Scotland."

David also writes that he is doing his best to coax Somerset

Maughan out of his retirement on the Riviera to play a role in "Silken Affair," that of the presiding judge. Maughan hasn't done any acting since he appeared in the introduction to his short stories "Quartet." He's an old man now but he still has a great deal of charm.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Fess Parker has been seeing a pretty brunette TV actress named Shani Wallis in London where she's showing him the town.

Certainly looks as if Linda Darnell was in the mood for love at the Marineland Restaurant where she and an airlines pilot, handsome Robbie Robertson, were having dinner.

An enthusiastic audience at the Coconut Grove to hear Patti Page were Jeanne Crain, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Douglas and the Ray Starks. Later they all went to Zsa Zsa Gabor's party honoring Producer Jimmy Woolf and her sister Eva and Dr. John Williams.

Rosalind Russell, who did much to establish the Sister Kenny Hospital in El Monte, has started the drive to collect half a million dollars which the hospital needs.

A new rush of interest in "Strip for Action." The best thing about the play has always been the

Garrett 4-H Members Enter Broiler Contest

OAKLAND—Six Garrett County 4-H Club members will take part in the Western Maryland region of the Junior Broiler Production contest which will be held here on May 25.

They are Jean Beachy, John Beachy and David Otto, of Swanton, Ronald Glass, of Accident, Lawrence Steyer and Jack Holt-schneider, both of Deer Park.

The contestants started their projects in this region March 23 with 100 chicks. Each contestant kept records on the birds during the nine-week growing period.

For judging, a contestant will select six cockerels from his 100-bird flocks. According to Perry F. Twining, Extension poultryman, University of Maryland, the contest, designed to teach the economical production of quality poultry, is sponsored by the Maryland State Poultry Council, Inc., in cooperation with the University Extension Service and the Maryland State Fair Board.

James A. McHenry, assistant Garrett County agent, is a regional committee chairman.

Green Spring Church To Be Dedicated May 6

GREEN SPRING—A new church sponsored by Central Assembly of God Church, will be dedicated at services here Sunday, beginning at 2:30 p. m. (DST).

Rev. Frank J. Fratto, pastor of the sponsoring church, said Rev. Wilber D. Bell will be in charge of the services, which will have Rev. Wallace Odum, secretary-treasurer of the Potomac District, Assemblies of God, as the principal speaker. Presbyter for the dedication will be Rev. N. E. Haupt.

Lumber Theft Case Is Tried In Keyser Court

Westernport Man Draws Sentence

KEYSER — Charged with the theft of lumber valued at $500, William Kifer of Westernport was sentenced Thursday in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser to from one to 10 years in the West Virginia State Penitentiary.

Judge Ernest A. See also ordered him to reimburse the owner and pay court costs.

Kifer was tried at the last term of court, but the jury could not reach a verdict and the indictment was rewritten.

Doral C. Lambert, Cumberland, was acquitted yesterday afternoon on a state motion charge.

A jury returned a verdict of guilty in the trial of Ralph and James Munday of Cumberland. They were charged with stealing brass fittings from the B&O Railroad. The brothers, though indicted last January 17, had separate hearings.

Earlier trials in February resulted in a hung jury which was dismissed by Judge See.

Sentence was deferred until a later date.

No other hearings are scheduled until next Friday.

Most errors made in the average bridge game are of a fundamental nature. While a knowledge of such dramatic plays as squeezes, end plays and coups is helpful, they do not play nearly the important role assigned to the ever recurring basic situations. There are so many different things to keep track of in bridge that it is a relatively easy matter to overlook a simple play, and then discover too late that an irremediable faux pas has been committed. Such an experience was enjoyed (?) by South at his three notrump contract.

The opening lead of the three of diamonds was won by declarer in his own hand with the jack. A low club to the ten won the trick in dummy, and a club return to the king was captured by West's ace. West returned a diamond to dummy's ace and the declarer realized too late that he had four good tricks in his own hand, but no way to get there. He twisted and turned from this point on, but the defense was shrewd enough to keep him locked in dummy, and eventually the contract was defeated to the tune of down 200.

Yet the play of the hand was simplicity itself. All that South had to do was to win the opening lead in dummy, establish his four club tricks by driving out the ace, and take his nine tricks. What had happened was that the declarer fell into the trap of thinking he was picking up an extra diamond trick by getting a free finesse into his diamond tenace. He did not appreciate the illusory nature of the windfall. He failed to anticipate the likely consequence of his hasty play from dummy on the opening lead.

If South had followed a basic rule of notrump play—always count your immediate winners, and add to them those which need to be established, before proceeding—he would not have fallen victim to his haste. The declarer had started with five quick tricks, and all he had to do was build up four more in clubs. Since this plan involved a later entry to his own hand, the play of the ace of diamonds on the first trick became mandatory.

Tycoon Of The '30s

"Dodsworth" is a very uncomplimentary play. A bored and selfish wife of a retired automobile magnate gets her come-uppance when she toys with life a little too strenuously in Europe. The automobile magnate, a very citadel of mid-western get-up-and-go, winds up with a nice girl.

The great strength of "Dodsworth," which is out of Sinclair Lewis by Sidney Howard by David Shaw, lies in its simple truthfulness. Lewis, one of our five Nobel Prize-winning authors, had that midwestern earthiness which did not hesitate to state the obvious. His Dodsworth is an uncomplicated American millionaire who harbors the old American virtues, from motherhood to the American flag, and who is bewildered but not for a moment taken in by the subtler European values.

His wife, on the other hand, is taken for a royal sleigh ride by a culture she doesn't really understand and which eventually leaves her stranded and desolate and alone. This is a very straightforward tale; it had to happen and Sinclair Lewis had the great good sense to let it happen without the sort of intellectual adornments that a younger writer might feel bound to insert. The America he wrote about was essentially a simpler and less sophisticated America—it was before the second World War made us all grow up in a hell of a hurry—and Lewis called his shots as he saw them, with candor and great conviction.

The story was dramatized by Sidney Howard, one of the most formidable play craftsmen this country has ever produced, and it remains a model that any young playwright could read with profit. David Shaw, who did the adaptation for television on the NBC spectacular the other night, had an unenviable job, Howard being one of the least cuttable playwrights around, and he did splendidly. If there were any scars, I didn't notice them.

The NBC production starred Frederic March as Dodsworth, Claire Trevor as his wife, and Geraldine Fitzgerald as the other woman in Dodsworth's life. Frederic March has long since proved he's one of the most competent actors we have but I was astonished by Miss Trevor's fine performance as the selfish wife. It's a thankless and difficult part and she managed to make it believable and even, within limits, sympathetic.

But the center of attraction, of course, is Dodsworth, a very human American self-made millionaire. It's odd that he is so very different—a much nicer fellow, really—than the tycoons we have been getting more recently in "Executive Suite," "Patterns" and "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit." The present bigshot executive, at least as portrayed in literature, is a very ruthless man who wrecks his marriage or his junior executives, all in the name of greater efficiency.

Sam Dodsworth made his millions while still holding both the respect and the love of his underlings. Maybe it was easier to make the money then or maybe Lewis simply had a greater insight into the effect of money on men and, more especially, on their wives. The effect of Europe on Americans has been dealt with extensively by many writers from Henry James to Irwin Shaw but no one understood it any better than Lewis, at least in his day. Its impact on Americans has changed and will change as we change and each of our writers sees these things in a somewhat different light.

Frostburg Area Will Fight For Miners Hospital

To Seek Continued State Operation

Officials of communities served by Miners Hospital met last night in Frostburg and made plans for presenting the case for continued state operation of the institution before a Legislative Council committee in Baltimore May 16.

The delegation representing Frostburg, Mt. Savage and other Georges Creek communities, Sen. Charles M. See and members of the Allegheny County Delegation and the governors of the hospital will attend the hearing slated at 11 a. m. before the Budget and Finance committee of the Council.

The protests will result from a recent report of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committee, suggesting that a study be made of the feasibility of discontinuing state operation of Miners Hospital in Frostburg and turning it over to local interests for operation.

Sen. See and the delegation pledged their full support to efforts toward continued state operation.

State funds are being used, they said, in other parts of the state for hospital services, including the University of Maryland Hospital.

Michael J. Byrnes, secretary of the Board of Governors of Miners Hospital, reported he will file a protest on charges made against the hospital, saying the institution has been almost completely remodeled since 1949.

TO SPEAK — Members of the Upper Potomac Chapter of Washington and Lee University Alumni will hear an address by Dr. Walter A. Flick, head of the Education and Psychology Department at W&L, at the chapter's spring dinner meeting in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

80 Parents Will Attend Workshops

Some 80 Allegheny County parents are planning to attend a two-day leadership workshop to be held May 15 and 16 from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m., according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

Because of the interest shown, the workshop will be divided into two groups. One will be at the Barton Elementary School and the other at the Parkside Elementary School in LaVale. Each group will be led by a consultant from the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland.

Parents living in the Georges Creek area, Frostburg, Eckhart and McCoole will attend the Barton workshop. Those living in Cumberland, Mt. Savage, Ellerslie, Corriganville, LaVale, Oldtown, Flintstone and Pine Plains will go to Parkside.

"We feel that exceptional progress has been made in the area of parent discussion groups," Higgins said. He is placing dependence on the school principals to stimulate the program among the parents.

Lunch will be served at 11:30 a. m. at both schools.

Water Line Passes Test

The North Branch water line has passed pressure tests and is completed except for final flushing and sterilizing, according to Water Commissioner William J. Edwards.

The line is in actual service for the purposes of fire protection, he added.

Edwards explained that when the 26,500-foot water line was designed, provisions were made for four fire hydrants, located within the city limits in areas which need additional fire protection.

These hydrants, he said, are actually in service now if the need arises.

The 18-inch line will be ready for all uses as soon as it is drained and chlorine added for sterilization.

Actual construction was completed on April 27, and Cumberland Contracting Company crews have tested the line for pressure and have cleaned up the right of way.

The water line, which will cost about $400,000, will furnish water for sanitary purposes and standby fire protection for the $34,000,000 plate glass plant being built by Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at North Branch.

These hydrants, he said, are actually in service now if the need arises.

Teachers Will Tour County Area

Twenty-six teachers from 11 Allegheny County public schools have made reservations to participate in the County Conservation Tour sponsored by the County Board of Education and the County Teachers Association from 9:30 a. m. until 3:40 p. m. today.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer said the schools to be represented include Allegheny, Fort Hill, Mt. Savage, Valley and Oldtown high schools and Beall, Centre Street, Hammond Street, John Humbird, Pennsylvania Avenue and West Side elementary schools.

Joining with the 26 teachers will be Byron Ashbaugh, director of the Maryland Department of Research and Education; District Forester William H. Johnson, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden; County Agent Joseph M. Steger, Martin M. Gordon, soil conservation aide; Kenneth M. Stone, soil scientist, and Rizer.

The group will leave Fort Hill High School in a bus at 9:30 a. m. Saturday and will stop first at the Corriganville limestone quarry. During the rest of the morning they will visit the farms of Wilbert Paul and Lester Beal in the Mt. Savage area and the Glen Savage dairy before having lunch at Mt. Savage School.

After inspecting the outdoor laboratory at the school, the group will visit the Marshall Porter farm and the Great Meadow farms at Eckhart where a herd of purebred Aberdeen Angus cattle will be seen.

Chest X-Ray Results Are Coming In

Most Will Receive Negative Reports

Results of the 1956 Chest X-Ray Survey in Allegheny and Garrett counties are coming in.

Most of the 6,508 residents of the two counties who participated will get good news indeed.

It will come in a card forwarded by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, advising the results were negative—in other words, that no chest abnormalities or diseases were found when the miniature picture was enlarged and examined by State Health Department experts.

To Ask Re-Checks

Others, and the number is expected to be well under 100 in the two counties, will receive letters forwarded by the county health departments, suggesting that one come to the Health Department so a larger X-ray picture can be taken.

Many of these re-check pictures have already been taken at the Health Department here, and will be read at the weekly Chest clinics held in City Hall.

Officials pointed out that a positive reading need not indicate the presence of tuberculosis.

A major tool in the fight against diseases of the chest, the X-ray can reveal the presence of diseases such as tuberculosis, chest cancer or silicosis. It also shows chest abnormalities, bronchitis, or heart conditions which may not have been correct.

Diagnosis Is Made

In any case, a careful diagnosis is made from the large picture taken here, and results sent to one's private physician.

Officials of the Allegheny-Garrett Tuberculosis Association said this year's chest survey was the best ever.

It resulted, they said, in 500 more X-rays in four weeks than were taken last year in six weeks.

Participation varied according to communities and the density of population, but the unit averaged 309 pictures a day while in this area between March 13 and April 12.

Commissioners Will Get Bids On Materials

The Allegheny County Board of Commissioners voted yesterday to receive bids on crushed stone and materials needed for repairs to 12 county bridges.

Bids on some 20,000 tons of crushed stone to be used by the County Roads Department between July 1 of this year and June 30, 1957, will be received until 10:30 a. m. June 1. Portions of the stone will be delivered to Westernport, Barton, Lonaconing, Midland, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, McCoole, Cresaptown, Oldtown, Flintstone and Cumberland.

The material for bridge repairs will be received until 10:30 a. m. May 25. The bridges include Brice Hollow, Hinkle Road, Mason Road, Smouse Mill Road, Braddock Farm, Columbia Street in Mt. Savage, two on Frost Mine Road, Blank Road, two on Dogwood Flat Road and Mill Run Road.

Sought in the bid are 85 pieces of 12-gauge guard rail, 35 end terminals, 4,686 square feet of metal floor, 378 square feet of 10-gauge metal bridge floors and 520 lineal feet of 10-gauge end dam material.

At yesterday's meeting, the commissioners also agreed to accept a deed of easement for a 40-foot wide street of some 600 feet in length to be known as Adeline Drive, running off Bedford Road.

The commissioners stipulated that the road will not be accepted until the property owners construct the roadway, including grading, drainage and surfacing with six inches of limestone and a double treatment of limestone and asphalt.

Permission was granted after Attorney James Alfred Aviret appeared at the meeting representing two property owners, A. H. Wilson and Presley W. Mauk.

Hewitt recalls that his mother once told him that his father once had more than 20 of the small flags which draped Lincoln's coffin, but most of them have been lost through the years. Hewitt decided last year to give this last one in his possession to the County Board of Education for safekeeping and so the school children of the county would be able to see it.

Revival Being Held At EUB Church Here

Revival services are being held at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, 26 East Mary Street, this evening and tomorrow evening, according to Rev. Joseph P. Sheesley, pastor.

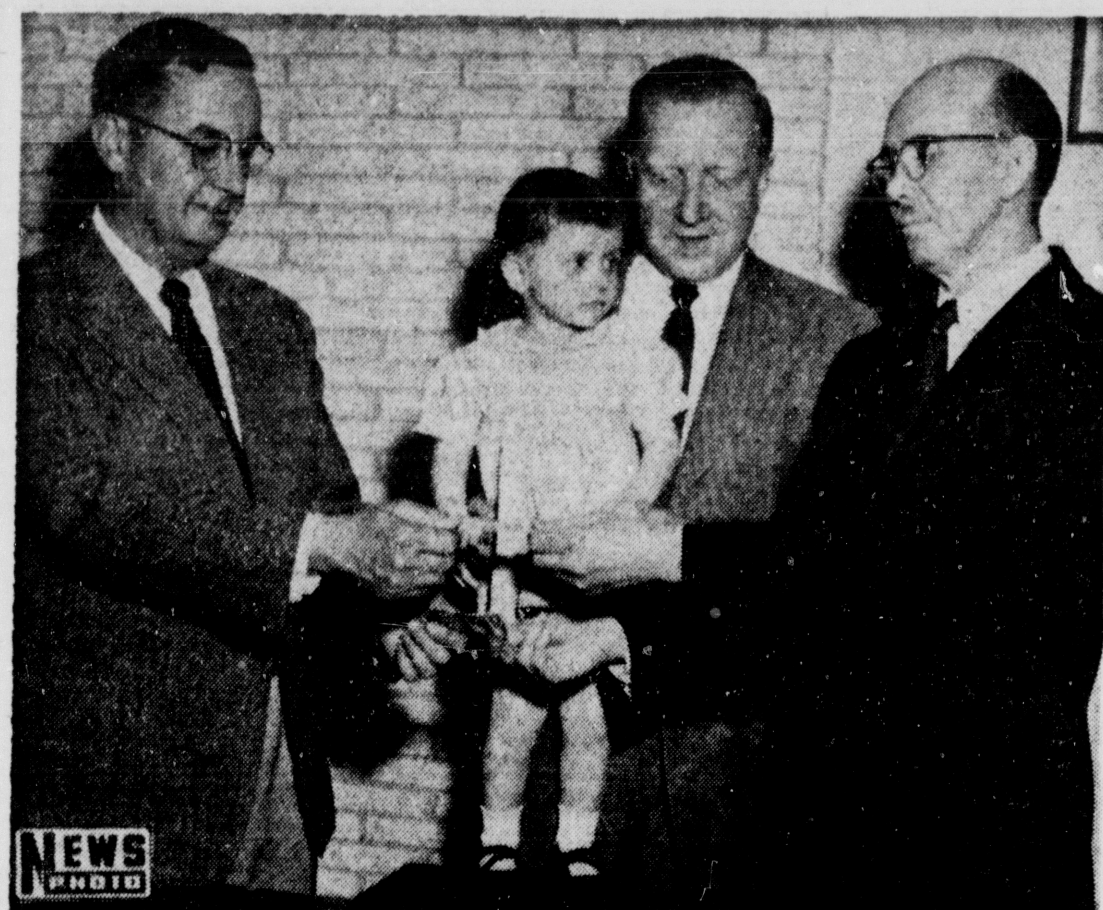

O. T. Jacobs is bringing the message. Tonight's service begins at 7:30 o'clock while Sunday's service begins at 7 p. m.

First Sports Car Ticket Sold

J. L. Towler right, of the Hotel Association and the Maryland Travel Council, buys the first ticket to the May 19-20 Cumberland Sports Car Races from Henry K. Duke. Looking on is William R. Carscaden, general chairman, with Margaret Ann Fisher, 220 Beall Street. Margaret is one of many children who will benefit from the Lions Club sight conservation project, to which proceeds of the races will go. The club now is having glasses made for Margaret.

CSMC Awards Presentation Set Tomorrow

Annual awards of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade will be presented tomorrow afternoon during a rally which will be held at SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

The rally will begin at 3 p. m. Awards will be given to qualifying students of four local Catholic schools for meritorious work in behalf of the missions.

Rt. Rev. Louis C. Vaeth, archdiocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, will present the various awards, which will exceed those given in past years and will include the Archbishop Curley Medal and Paladino Jewels which will come from the National CSMC Headquarters in Cincinnati.

Rev. Kenan Crowley, OFM, Cap. assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's, will deliver the sermon. Rev. Marius Elsenner, OFM, Cap. pastor, will be celebrant of solemn benediction and will be assisted by Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Sub-deacon will be Rev. Robert F. Hopkins, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Students of Catholic Girls Central, St. Mary's High School, Ursuline Academy and LaSalle High School will participate.

They will form a procession in the church hall led by a cross bearer and acolytes and will march to the church. Members of Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will form a guard of honor. They are asked to assemble at the hall at 2:30 p. m. in full regalia.

Lurana Veterans Unit CSMC will also participate. The laity is invited to attend.

Historic Flag Framed In Office Of Superintendent

An old United States flag with a proud heritage has been framed and now rests over the mantle in the office of Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

The flag was one of many which draped the caisson that carried the body of President Abraham Lincoln through the streets of New York City after his assassination.

Zebulon M. Hewitt, 524 Cumberland Street, gave the flag to the County Board of Education for safekeeping. His father, also named Zebulon, drove the caisson carrying Lincoln's body through the streets of New York.

Hewitt recalls that his mother once told him that his father once had more than 20 of the small flags which draped Lincoln's coffin, but most of them have been lost through the years. Hewitt decided last year to give this last one in his possession to the County Board of Education for safekeeping and so the school children of the county would be able to see it.

Youth Fellowship Council To Meet

The Cumberland Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship Council will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Central YMCA.

All officers of local church MYF groups are urged to attend as a slate of officers for the coming election will be presented.

'Requiem' Soloists Have Varied Music Backgrounds

Mrs. Joyce Zornig, who will sing the contralto solo part in the Cumberland Choral Society's presentation of Mozart's "Requiem" at 8 p. m. Monday in the Allegheny High School auditorium, moved here recently from Boston, Mass.

She studied in the College of Music at Boston University and six years in New York City, where her voice coach was H. Wellington Smith. She also attended the Music Academy of the West at Santa Barbara, Calif. Later she conducted a Sunday afternoon radio program in Brockton, Mass., for a year and was a member of the Gibson trio who sang folk songs.

The two men who will be soloists in the Monday night concert have been prominent in local musical circles. William Clatus Hartsock, the baritone soloist, has been director of the choir at St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church since last year.

Hartsock has been a soloist in both St. Mark's and Centre Street Methodist Church choirs. He also was a member of the community capella choir, directed by W. Wallace Ashley, and is a member of the Elks Quartet. He has been a soloist and active in Minstrelsy for seven or eight years. He directed junior choirs at Centre Street Church for several years before becoming senior choir director in 1951.

Rudolph Kompanek, the tenor soloist, studied trumpet under Frank DeLuca. He has been a member of local bands and is a member of the Centre Street Methodist Church choir.

The fourth soloist, Miss Betty Wilson, a native of Frostburg, studied at Julliard School of Music in New York City and has a varied music background in that city. She consented to replace Miss Josephine Kompanek, who became ill.

Legion Sponsors Memorial Day Parade Plans

Many Groups Are Asked To March

A Memorial Day program is being planned here on Wednesday, May 30 under the sponsorship of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion.

Thomas F. Conlon, chairman, announces that the parade will form in the area of the State Armory, South Centre Street, at 10:30 a. m. and will get under way at 11 a. m.

The program will consist of the parade to Rose Hill Cemetery, where services will be conducted at the Soldiers' Monument.

In commenting on the custom established by the Grand Army of the Republic, Conlon points out "it is fitting that we continue this custom established by our earlier patriots, to set this one day aside to honor our departed comrades."

The following organizations are being urged to take part: Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW and Auxiliary Unit; Spanish War Veterans; Military Order of the Purple Heart and Auxiliary Unit; Company C, Maryland National Guard; Headquarters Company; Army Reserve Corps; Marine Reserve; Navy Reserve; Fort Washington Post 2, DAV and Auxiliary Unit; Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion and Auxiliary Unit.

Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, and Auxiliary Unit; Victor Tambollee Post 1717, Catholic War Veterans and Auxiliary Unit.

Voiture 164, Forty and Eight Society; Fort and Eight Saloon; Gold Star Mothers; Navy Mothers League; Fulton Myers Post Drum and Bugle Corps.

Fort Hill High School Junior and Senior Bands; Allegheny High School Junior and Senior Bands; Recruiting Services of Army, Navy and Marine Corps; Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion and Auxiliary Unit.

On Saturday night, May 12, the final announcement and crowning of "Mrs. America" will take place in the Peabody Auditorium in Daytona Beach.

The winner of the "Mrs. America" title will receive a gas kitchen, a trip to Europe and the Belgian Congo, in addition to many other prizes.

The week will not be all work, as there are parties at the Country Club, beach parties and special tours and trips for the husbands while the women are busy competing.

Special trophies will be awarded to winners in different divisions such as cooking, sewing, baking, laundering, housekeeping, meal planning, safe driving, and one contestant will be voted "Mrs. Congeniality" by the contestants themselves.
